SPRING 2022

7 THINGS I CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT

1. Christofle – Hard to believe this amazing silver bowl was designed in 1876 in the style of Louis XVI. It's scale and design still resonate with today's glamour. Imitating a pearl neck lace, the exterior of the "Perles Silver Bowl" gives a visual texture that looks contemporary and gives any room a sense of elegance and prestige. 2. Cheval Blanc Paris – Have you ever stayed at a hotel you never wanted to leave? Imagine waking up in a beautiful room designed by Peter Marino, with a glassed-in terrace overlooking the river Seine in Paris, with a bathroom filled with Dior products and a chef that creates the most delectable Anecien cakes. A dream hotel. www.chevalblanc.com

3. St. Louis crystal – The famous French crystal manufacturer has been creating luxury crystal since 1586. It was recently purchased by Hermes and continues to evolve with the times. Not your mom's old-style cut crystal, the "Amadeus Sky Blue Hock Stemware" will certainly make a statement in today's world. It's simple, clean lines and slender, elegant stem are a display of modern beauty. www.saint-louis.com

4. Aquazzura – I saw it in the window, and I bought it immediately! The "Yes Darling" is my new favorite shoe, and I can't get enough of this comfortable, open toed, slide in heel with a super fun rhinestone ball at the base. The best post-pandemic accessory. 5. Knoll – The vintage, Warrant Platner, upholstered, high-back lounge chairs seem to never go out of style. They looked cool in the 70's and they continue to feel fresh and fabulous today as well. A chic, large scale comfortable classic chair, that has style for decades. 6. Haas Brothers – I'm a fan of the quirky, playful, yet stunning pieces created by the twin Haas Brothers team of artists out Los Angeles. Their unique, pop culture pieces have been scooped up and sold by multiple museums and collectors. Their work puts a smile on my face. www.thehaasbrothers.com

7. David / Nicolas – sometimes you stop dead in your tracks when you see perfection. I had that emotion when I first saw the "Constellation" dining table, which I think, is more art than furniture. Made from Travertino bronzo and silvered brass, it consists of 3 pillars that are hand-honed to perfection, creating a visually strong, special statement to modern design.
