SPRING 2023

7 THINGS I CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT

1. Ingo Maurer – the very unique, limited production "Porca Miseria chandelier" by German designer, Ingo Maurer is a show-stopper. Each chandelier is custom made to order and can be adapted in size or details. The broken ceramic plates are carefully weighted for perfect balance, creating a hanging sculpture.

2. Fred Allard – I'm loving the humorous side of French artist, Fred Allard, who uses original high-end designer handbags to create his sculptured, acrylic pieces. Freezing street style and encapsulating time, his work will make you smile.

3. Paola Lenti – I am a huge fan of this famous Italian furniture designer. Her Afra lounge chair is one of her many unique, instantly recognizable pieces made out of the creative materials she selects. Created with a steel structure and covered in a woven polyester Aquante yarn, it's a visual stunner.

4. Hermes Sneakers – These fun day sneakers are lined with shearling and accented with the Kelly bag lock. They are so stylish and perfect for long city walks.

5. B&B Italia – The Harbour lounge chair by Naoto Fukasawa is a modern classic. Beautiful to look at and extremely comfortable. A relaxing lounge chair with soft swivel rotating base, a high backrest and removable headrest are all part of the comfort and ergonomic design.

5. Valentino Roman Stud Crystal Bag – My new "I need it" purse! Made out of raffia and adorned with mini crystals, it's a casual, yet very stylish accessory that goes with almost any look. And it comes in the signature Valentino pink too.

7. Sensei Hotel – The best spring retreat and place to leave your worries behind is the new Sensai Porcupine Creek in Palm Desert, CA. It has it all: Golf, spa, beautiful rooms, great food, and close to El Paseo Drive.
