1. Tony Ward – It's always fun to discover a new fashion designer, and Tony Ward is my current couture obsession. His summer bright colors, and drama create stunning gowns and dresses that are so "look at me". A true, girl-girl designer, the Tony Ward studio puts out divine pieces that any woman would love to wear. His last runway show was pure wow and inspiration.

2. D&G – I saw these super-sexy, strap heels, tried them on, and loved them. I did an Instagram survey and seems everyone agreed with me. Even more important? My dinner date did too.

3. Glen Spiro – I love the modern interpretation of wearable art by master creator Glen Spiro. He crafts exceptional, unique pieces that are not your mother's hand-me-downs. Featuring diamond and turquoise, these drop earrings evoke a freshness in design in keeping with today's modern glam and luxury.

4. Croc Chair – I was instantly enamored! The detail, playfulness and creativity of the gilt, patinated bronze, Crocodile Armchair was a visual delight. Created by the French duo of "Les Lalanne" in 1993, the series of 8 chairs is just one of their many iconic designs that makes you question, Art or Function?

5. Beach Tote – The cutest and coolest tote this summer has to be the Skylar Pearl Tote by BTB Los Angeles. You can take your giant pearls to the beach with this fun straw, fringe tote that is practical and stylish. Available in natural, mint or black.

6. Limoge Dishes – Sylvie Coquette single-handedly changed the traditional "Feelings" family Limoge company into the innovative porcelain company of today. Her unique shapes and deconstructivism style take food presentation to the next level and are sought after by high-end chefs such as Jean-Georges. I was recently served a meal on her butterfly plates and was so excited I could not eat!

7. Wilfert & Wilfert – Breaking with tradition, Wilfert & Wilfert created the ADA collection, a fun, modern cutlery set handmade out of 24k gold with black resin handles. Despite looking delicate, holding any of these pieces, you feel the bold weight of the combined materials, which make this grouping so visually chic. The best part: they are dishwasher safe!
